School Con-

Action Cannot Be Delayed
Without Serious Consequences

THE board of education of Glendale is today advertising a bond election to be held on March 15.

The imperative need of an affirmative action on this bond election has been so ably presented to us that there should be little opposition to the voting of the bonds.

All present opposition is based on our last increase in taxation. The added financial burdens upon each individual taxpayer of Glendale through the voting of these bonds will be too small to be given serious consideration.

With a city growing as Glendale is we must expect bond issues to take care of school problems.

A comparison of the percentage of gain in enrollment with that of building valuation and number of classrooms, proves conclusively that this bond issue should be voted.

In December, 1917, the enrollment of the city schools was 1428 students, while the enrollment in December, 1922, was 3961, or a gain of 173 per cent in five years.

In December, 1917, the number of classrooms and the valuation of school buildings in the city system were approximately 48 rooms at a valuation of $286,512.

In December, 1922, there was a total of 95 classrooms and a valuation of $996,900, an increase of 47 rooms and $310,388 in valuation, or an approximate gain in school rooms and valuation of 98 per cent in five years.

In other words, while our enrollment has increased 173 per cent in five years, our building program has increased only 98 per cent.

These figures should convince the most skeptical of the need of voting the new bond issue. Otherwise conditions will become critical within a short time.

The proposed bond issue is for $500,000, which is to be used to increase the capacity of all the school buildings in Glendale—with the exception of the Colorado school and the Wilson Avenue intermediate school—and includes the purchase of approximately eight acres on the northwest side of the city for future use as a site.

These improvements will add 36 classrooms, giving a total of 131 rooms at a valuation of $1,096,900, a gain of 173 per cent in five years.

In other words, if this bond issue is voted the increase in the building program will compare favorably with the increase in enrollment, being 173 per cent in building against 173 per cent in enrollment.

We have heard it stated that our bonding capacity would be exceeded if this bond issue is voted. We find that this is not a fact, for the county auditor advises that the bonding capacity of the Glendale city schools is $561,289, so the issue is well within the allowance.

Glendale's growth in population has made it necessary to build many houses, office buildings and churches. It has caused the amount of our building permits to be the talk of Southern California, if not the entire country. We must expect our school program to grow in proportion.

Appoint yourself a committee of one to enlist the support of your friends and neighbors to help carry these bonds, and let the children of Glendale have the school facilities to which they are entitled.

A vote for or against education immediately and permanently reacts on minds of children in congested class rooms, and damage done cannot be repaired at any future election. The responsibility is ours.

NEW STORES TO BE BUILT ON SOUTH GLENDALE

J. W. Caldwell of Los Angeles is having plans drawn for a brick store building which he will erect at 110 South Glendale avenue. This building will be 50x100 feet in size and will be entirely of brick.

The question as to whether this is to be a single or two-story building has not yet been decided by Mr. Caldwell. In the building there will be two stores of 25-feet each, and the cost of the structure will depend on its height.

Thursday afternoon the teams will play with Santa Monica.

COMMUNITY SING AT HIGH SCHOOL ON MONDAY

First of Regular Series of Programs to Be Given in City
NO ADMISSION FEE
Under Auspices of Committee of Local Citizens

The people of Glendale are cordially invited to attend the community "sing" and community music program at the Glendale Union High School auditorium Monday evening, February 26 at 8 o'clock. This will be the first of a regular series of community programs to be given in Glendale under the auspices of Community Service. Community singing of old and new songs and a splendid musical program will feature the evening's entertainment. No admission will be charged nor will there be a collection. "Everybody Neighbors Through Song" will be the slogan of this program.

The program is under the general auspices of the music committee of Glendale Community Service, A. L. Baird, chairman, P. J. Hayselden, Francis Henry, Capt. Ripley D. Jackson, Mrs. W. A. Kulp, Alexander Mitchell, H. V. Henry, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows.

"To make the stranger and newcomer to Glendale welcome in the community life" is one of the purposes of Glendale Community Service in promoting these community "sings."

Speaking of the purpose of Community Service in promoting these events V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, says:

"It is acknowledged by almost every leader in the civic and commercial life of Glendale that there is real need of some place where the people of the community may come together just as neighbors and for the time forget that they are members or representatives of some organization or group in the community life. No better opportunity for this can be found than through the community "sing" where the people gather chiefly to sing together and thus for the moment forget what we call "class consciousness."

"With this purpose in view Glendale Community Service through its music committee of which A. L. Baird is chairman has provided several thousand copies of the song leaflet issued by the national headquarters of Community Service, Inc. for the use of the various organizations and groups of the community who wish to participate in this movement to make Glendale a "singing city."

"I very much hope that everyone will feel an interest in attending and heartily participating in the first of the general community "sings" which Community Service is offering at the Glendale Union High School next Monday evening February 26. Let us all attend this event in a real spirit of neighborly cooperation and goodwill and with the purpose of especially helping to make welcome to our community the hundreds of new families and individuals who are making Glendale their Home City."

OAKMONT CLUB HOUSE PLANS APPROVED

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Oakmont Country Club held yesterday, the plans for the club house submitted by Roy L. Kent Company, in competition with other concerns in the same line of business, were approved and work ordered to begin immediately on the drawing of the detail plans and specifications. Kent will procure bids for the club on all classes of work, as well as supervise the construction from start to finish.

Every effort will be made to have the drawings in such shape that work will begin early in March and as the club takes title to the land March 1, there will be no delay in pushing through the construction to a finish so that the many members of the club can enjoy the advantages of their new home by June 1.

Plans for the golf course submitted by Max Behr, were also approved subject to necessary changes as the work progresses.

Directors present were: President H. S. Webb, Harry E. Hall, S. B. Morse, A. L. Baird, Francis Henry and H. M. Parker. Absent: Roy L. Kent and N. C. Edwards.

REBEKAHS PLAN BIG I. O. O. F. CELEBRATION

Elect Mrs. John Strother Deputy District President at Meeting

At a largely attended meeting of Carnation Rebekah Lodge held Tuesday evening important business was transacted including the election of a district deputy president; the discussion of plans for celebrating the 104th anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship, in Glendale; and the appointment of a meeting for the organization of an afternoon Carnation Rebekah club. As usual, Mrs. Carl W. Schwitzer, noble grand, presided. This distinction comes to the lodge but once in five years.

In view of this fact it is possible the annual celebration for Southern California of the founding of the Odd Fellows Lodge April 26, may be held in this city. It will be the 104th anniversary and if the city fathers co-operate with the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs in entertaining the 1200 delegates who may be expected at that time, Glendale will probably be the scene of the celebration which was held last year in Whittier.

Announcement was made that March 9 the Rebekahs will give a dance for which the Hollywood Post American Legion Orchestra will furnish the music under the leadership of H. W. Johnson. A meeting for the organization of a Rebekah Afternoon Club will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Bennett, 404 North Jackson street with Mrs. Valerius as an assisting hostess. All members of the Glendale lodge and visiting Rebekahs are invited to attend. Officers will be elected and matters of interest discussed.

BOTULISM CASE DEVELOPS IN GLENDALE

Home Canned Beans Kills Mrs. Marie F. Hoffman

Mrs. Marie F. Hoffman of 444 West Windsor road, who contracted botulism Monday as a result of eating beans that she had canned during the summer, died today at the county hospital.

Last Monday Mrs. Hoffman opened the can of beans for lunch. She decided to taste them to make sure that they were good, and in doing so she swallowed about half a teaspoonful of the fluid. A short time later she became ill and Dr. Mabrey was called. After diagnosis the case he ordered that she be sent to the hospital. Since that time the patient has been growing gradually worse.

The beans that were discarded were fed to the chickens belonging to a neighbor and the entire flock of thirteen died within 8 hours, according to Dr. Kaemmerling. It was through the efforts of the Glendale health department that it was discovered that the poisoning was in the beans. This discovery aided greatly in the treatment of the case. All of the vegetables that were canned by Mrs. Hoffman last summer have been discarded.

LITTLE ONES STRAY FROM HOME

Clyde Carpenter Puts Over Good One on Mother

Little Clyde Carpenter, 4 years old, of 609 West Milford street, selected an unusual place to take his beauty nap yesterday afternoon and as a result there was all kinds of trouble.

After searching for a long time for the child Mrs. Carpenter called the Glendale police and asked that the department help her in finding the missing child. The alarm was sent to the officers in the various parts of the city and for an hour the "boys in blue" were on their toes.

At 9:30 o'clock Mrs. Carpenter called and informed the desk sergeant that her little hopeful had been found.

He was asleep under the dining room table.

Another flurry was caused when Mrs. Fisher of 609 West Colorado street, informed the police that her 3-year-old daughter, had strayed away from the family fire-side. The little one was found an hour later at the home of her uncle.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Sergeant Kerns entered the police department bearing a child he had found wandered aimlessly near the corner of Central and Broadway. A short time later Mrs. O'Connor of 411 North Central avenue, telephoned in and was told that her lost child was safe. She called for her child a short time later.

DEATH OF MRS. LEGRAND IS SHOCK

The news of the death of Mrs. John H. LeGrand, soloist of the LeGrand-Howe Evangelistic company, which held meetings in the Christian Church here last summer, will be a shock to her many friends in Glendale. She passed away yesterday after an operation in an Alhambra hospital. The funeral will be held from the Central Christian Church of Glendale on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the Hollywood cemetery. The services will be in charge of Rev. C. A. Cole, assisted by Rev. C. R. Hudson, Rev. R. W. Aberley, Pasadena; Rev. O. C. Mcgonam, Alhambra, and Rev. K. F. Nance, Redondo.

At 10 and Mrs. LeGrand, although young people, held meetings in a large number of Southern California communities with Mr. and Mrs. Howe, musicians, as assistants. The demands for their services were far more than they could fill among the churches of the southwest. Mrs. LeGrand endeavored herself to those who heard her while here by her simple, forceful and devotional way of singing the gospel songs and by her winsome and earnest manner of Christian work.

AUTOS COLLIDE IN THE CITY ROADS

Richard, 146 North Setauna avenue, Eagle Rock, came together. Mr. Richardson was injured by the broken glass of the windshield of his car, but after temporary treatment was able to continue on his way.

LA RAMADA ART CENTER DRAWS ATTENDANCE

John Cotton of Casa Verdugo Gives Talk on Caveman's Drawing

There was an excellent attendance at the meeting of the La Ramada Art Center last Sunday afternoon and those present manifested deep interest in the fine talk made by John Cotton, of Casa Verdugo, who reviewed early art, beginning with the prehistoric remains Reindeer Tribe found in the caves in Spain and Northern France and estimated to date back 2000 years before Christ. Animals are pictured in the solid rock and so vividly in motion portrayed that they are the wonder of artists of the present day, who declare they must have been made by torch-light.

"Art," he said, "is the universal expression of all ages, and hand in hand with it went religion when men began to worship animals." He traced the development of art down through the Gothic and Renaissance periods in Europe where art has continued to flourish in the hearts of the people.

The next meeting of the art center, which is for the benefit of the general public and to stimulate art interest, will be held one week from next Sunday afternoon at La Ramada.

The team has come up wonderfully since it was organized and if the same crew can be collected again next year the Legionnaires have championship aspirations which may well be called possible.

FOOTBALL RALLY FOR THE BONDS

Improvement Ass'n. and the Grand View P. T. A. to Support School Issue

TO POLL ALL VOTES

Organizations Secure Many New Members at Joint Meeting

The joint meeting of the Glendale Football Improvement association and the P. T. A. of the Grand View school, held at the school house Tuesday evening proved a real love feast for harmony and social enjoyment. Its purpose was to aid in the carrying of the school bonds at the election to be held March 15, and to serve as a membership drive for the two organizations, both purposes being accomplished. Announcement was made that on the date of the election an all-day program will be given at the school which all residents of the district are asked to attend. From there automobiles will convey them to the polls at the Central avenue school.

Alexander Mitchell, president of the Football Improvement association presided and opened the meeting with amusing stories of a semi-patriotic nature.

Mrs. Mitchell, acted as piano accompanist for the singers of the evening and Miss Dorothy Buckman, draped in large American flag, led the salute to the flag which was followed by the singing of "America."

The chief speaker of the evening was Col. James Everington, of the Committee of Fifteen, who satisfactorily explained many features of the coming bond issue which had puzzled some of the taxpayers. Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation of P. T. A. showed convincingly why mothers should support the school teachers and be often seen in the school rooms. Superintendent Richardson D. White announced the bond election and urged all registered voters to come to the polls.

Mrs. Buckman, secretary of the improvement association, after commenting on the national birthday celebrated in February, mentioned some important local birthday anniversaries, viz: that of Mrs. Elspethman, charter member of both the Football Improvement association and the Grand View P. T. A., and that of her husband which occurs three days later on February 22. In observance of these two events of special interest to the two organizations, Mrs. Elspethman was presented by Mrs. Mary Weldon, secretary of the Grand View P. T. A., with a handsome cake bearing one candle to signify the one-year of existence of the P. T. A. To Mr. Elspethman went an old-fashioned bouquet in red, white and blue, topped by an American flag.

Other program events of the evening were:
Reading—"Our Flag," by little Mildred Thompson in Martha Washington costume.
Piano solo—Miss Frances May Colburn, a new-comer who is a professional musician and teacher.
Dance—Highland Flitz, in costume, by little Maude Nicol.
Reading—"Discontentment," by Eleanor Thompson in Martha Washington gown.
Vocal solos—Mrs. W. Q. Widdows.
Vocal solo—Mr. Burton, who sang "The End of a Perfect Day" while refreshments were being served, by special request.

Pacific-Southwest Review

The Weekly Washington Letter of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, First Securities Company
By HERMAN NELSON
Manager Glendale Avenue Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

That the motion picture industry is important to the Pacific-Southwest, not only because of the vast resources which it brings here and the employment which it furnishes to a great number of people, but also through the business which it attracts to this country is indicated by a recent article in "Commerce Reports." The article is as follows:

TRADE FOLLOWS PICTURES

"To the old assertion that trade follows investment, there should be added a new slogan: 'Trade follows the motion pictures.'"

"One may take, for example, the case of Senor and Senora Gonzales, well-to-do citizens of Buenos Aires. They have been in the habit of purchasing their clothes in Paris. But, on a certain occasion, they drop in to see one of those American motion pictures that theaters of their native city. With pleased surprise Senor Gonzales notes the perfectly fitting attire of the hero. He has always imagined that Americans were less well-dressed than Europeans, but here, in an American picture, is an American whose apparel, in quality and appearance, outshines the best that one sees in European cities. Turning to his wife to express these recently acquired views, Senor Gonzales finds her in equally rapt contemplation of the leading woman's gowns. She, too, has made an illuminating discovery. And the result of the matter is that two prosperous residents of Buenos Aires now purchase their clothes in New York instead of Paris.

OTHER INDUSTRIES AFFECTED

"The two spectators in the instance cited may be multiplied by many thousands. For the leading man and the feminine star, there may be substituted any one of a score of well-known motion picture actors and actresses. To clothing, one may add dining-room sets and office equipment and automobiles and the thousand and one articles that form an integral part of an American film. One arrives then at some conception of the influence that the American motion picture is beginning to exert in creating a desire for American goods.

"The Rand Daily Mail, of Johannesburg, furnishes an interesting confirmation of this. Nine out of ten motion pictures shown in South Africa are, it says, of American origin, and American influence is increasing in all directions. South Africans are beginning to turn to the United States for articles that they formerly purchased elsewhere. And in calling on British film producers to enter the field and contest this American commercial prestige that is spreading through the medium of the cinema, the Johannesburg newspaper bears witness to the large measure of truth in the assertion that 'trade follows the motion pictures.'"

BOULEVARD UP SYCAMORE IS PROPOSED

City Officials and Supervisor Cogswell View Its Possibilities

An attempt is being made to arrange for the financing of a scenic boulevard from Glendale, up Sycamore canyon and over the summit into Flintridge, thus providing a road which will be, according to the claims made, three miles shorter between Glendale and Flintridge than is the present route via Montrose and La Canada.

Yesterday afternoon a party consisting of Supervisor Cogswell, County Road Engineer Jones, Mayor Robinson, City Manager Reeves, Secretary Rhoades of the chamber of commerce and newspaper representatives made the trip up the canyon to the meadows, where the present road ends, which is about one mile from where the proposed road would connect with the existing road in Flintridge. After inspecting the route of the proposed road from this point the party journeyed through Montrose up into Flintridge, where the proposed road from Glendale would connect with the existing road system of that locality.

Those interested in having this road cut through are endeavoring to get the county to build it by convict labor or otherwise. City Manager Reeves states that very little money has been spent during the past few years by the county in this section, although Glendale has been paying money into the treasury right along. This is a chance for the county to "come back" in a measure to this section, states Mr. Reeves.

It is claimed that a road of this kind would pay for itself within a few years in additional taxes. There are at least 800 acres of wonderful land in the canyon on which homes could be erected. These acres would be cut into 4,000 lots at an expenditure for improvements of approximately $1,000,000. These lots when improved with buildings will represent an average value of at least $5,000 each, or a total of $20,000,000, which based on an assessed valuation of 50 per cent will amount to $10,000,000.

At the present rate of taxation of 3.44 per cent, this would yield the county a revenue of $344,000 annually.

The suggestion was made that no doubt Senator Flint, owner of Flintridge, would be willing to donate considerable toward the construction of this road on account of the benefit it would be to his property.

The assertion was made by City Manager Reeves that the road could be surveyed and graded for $100,000, and that the average grade would be 5 per cent with a maximum of 8 per cent. The plan is to carry the decomposed granite that would be secured from the cuts farther up on the road down to the lower levels and thus make a fair roadway. Later, when that section has been built up it is proposed to construct a permanent roadway along this route, the adjoining property to pay for this improvement.

Supervisor Cogswell did not state whether or not he would support this road building program. That the road is feasible and that it would prove valuable, he acknowledged.

Supervisor Henry W. Wright, the representative on the board of supervisors from this district, was not present at this important observation tour.

HARRIETT MAE TEA ROOM TO OPEN FEB. 22

The Harriett Mae Tea room will open for business in the Wallace Flumb building, corner East Harvard and Maryland, Thursday, Feb. 22, with a big dinner from 5 to 8. For the past two weeks carpenters, painters and decorators have been fitting up the large room especially for the new tea room, and it will be one of the most elaborate places of the kind in this section.

According to the management it will be an exclusive tea room, where clubs may banquet and dine any day or night, and the service will be the very best. A large range has been installed and an expert chef employed. Glendale has needed a tea room like the Harriett Mae for some time and now that it has been established a good patronage is assured. Luncheons will be served from 11:30 to 2 p. m., afternoon teas from 2 to 5 and dinner from 5 to 8. A special invitation is extended Glendale people to visit the Harriett Mae Tea room on its opening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Chambers and daughter, Miss Myrtle Chambers have been and are still quite ill of "flu."

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowe, of 216 South Orange street, has as her houseguests for ten days, Mrs. J. P. Colson of St. Charles, Ill., and Mrs. E. Payne of Geneva, Ill.

Mrs. J. S. Dickerson, of 401 Gilbert street, and daughter Jane, were luncheon guests Wednesday of Mrs. Jane Markell at Hollywood.

Truths in Epigram

Power to do good is the true and lawful end of aspiration.—Lord Bacon.

There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness.—Dickens.

Wealth is like a viper, which is harmless if a man knows how to take hold of it; but if he does not, it will twine round his hand and bite him.—St. Clement.

CORRECT ENGLISH

A week has been set apart for promotion of the use of good English. This is wrong only in that the other fifty-one weeks of the year are slighted. There is no week that should not be marked by the desire to employ correct methods of expression.

Concerning the habitual resort to double negatives, and to other linguistic outrages that grate upon the cultured senses, no explanation comes to mind. In praising the courage of a patient a surgeon said, "You done better than I would have did." This surgeon has high standing in his profession. Presumably the text books he used as a student were grammatically precise. It is virtually certain that his instructors were familiar with the ordinary verbs. School children at play place small reliance upon the propriety of the manner in which their teachers speak, and waive all the influence that might be supposed to be exercised by their lessons. From the first, the child learning to read, by spelling out such sentences as "The boy has a dog," "Will the dog bite the boy?" is in contact with the correct form. The contact seems not to be effective. Later, that same child, clerking in a store, may be heard to tell a customer "we ain't got none of that left." Where and why does he learn such crudities?

Almost everybody, not illiterate, occasionally reads a book. It may not be literature, and it may not be the work of a stylist, but it is free from indecent assault on helpless verbs and adverbs. It recognizes a distinction in tenses, it draws a plain line between singular and plural. It bars out "Between you and I." It never indulges in "has went" or "have saw." Readers learn the story, but as to the vehicle by which the story is conveyed to them, they remain in ignorance.

Newspapers present to the general public the best language with which it is familiar. Sneering insinuations against "newspaperese" are silly. Not that the newspaper is perfect in this respect by any means. If the man on the street, the average individual, were to attain the level of the much-scorncd "newspaperese" he would cease to shock as at present, by exposing his deficiency every time he uttered a sentence of ten words. Many newspapers are now printing syndicate matter designed to give definite instruction in respect of this important subject. These are printed not for a week only but daily. The individual aware of his shortcomings, would be wise to read and digest them.

English is a beautiful, pliable and comprehensive language. Millions who ought to express themselves without marring and scarring it, fail to do so, and do not seem to care that they have failed.

CONGRESS TO GO JUNKETING

There are several meanings to "junket." These range from a cream cheese to a perambulating picnic. In this country the use of the term is likely to imply opprobrium. It is an insinuation that the picnic is at public expense, and not a dignified function having high purpose. But running the risk of reproach, members of congress propose to junket extensively. They have not, it will be conceded, covered themselves to any great depth under a mantle of glory. They have been kept at Washington a long time, just milling around, for the most part, in the manner of cattle in a corral. Perhaps by an excursion to remote places, getting by the way some idea of the magnitude of their own country, they may come in contact with inspiration, and return to duty ready for zealous performance of the same.

When a group of congressmen shall have visited Alaska by way of Panama they will understand, as they seem not to at present, that the United States, a large and going concern, has a Pacific as well as an Atlantic side. Doubtless there will come to them a realization that there is much on the former side to be developed and protected. They will have learned more concerning the needs of the army and navy than could have penetrated their understandings in the absence of first-hand knowledge. To some congressmen Alaska is nothing but a name. They will find it a visible and promising area.

If there is complaint that all this skurrying about by land and sea is at public expense, the comforting fact may be borne in mind that this particular junket will be a traveling school of instruction, and that the pupils stand in need of being instructed.

A MATTER OF MANNERS

"You haven't the manners of a street corner cat" was the remark of a house of commons laborer member. The remark was addressed to Lady Astor. There is no record of the humor in which she received it, but if she construed it as complimentary, she must have a sunny and optimistic soul.

To tell a lady that she had the manners of a street-corner cat would be directly insulting. To tell her that she does not possess such manners is a work of supererogation. Of course she does not, nor does she want them. She would resent having them attributed to her. It is possible also that she might resent the denial that she had them, for this would be the insinuation that such denial was necessary; that in its absence the observer might be unaware of her real quality, and ignorant that in no appreciable part was this quality feline.

It would seem that Lady Astor has a grievance if she chooses so to regard it. Also that she might as well let it go as a mere straining at parliamentary license, and then forget it.

Not infrequently English visitors advert harshly to American social ways. They do not give Americans credit for knowing how to demean themselves. Yet they may send over their severest critic, seat him in the gallery of congress, and he will listen a long, long time before he will hear any masculine member mention a congresswoman as in any way partaking or not partaking of the manners of a cat.

THE FILIBUSTER

Senator King announced that he would lead a filibuster against the ship subsidy bill. The purpose of a filibuster is to defeat the will of the majority. An effort is made to keep the issue from coming to a vote when the minority is certain that in the test of balloting, it would lose.

In this country the general understanding is that a majority should control. Even the minority declines to chafe under this rule, for it entertains hope of winning support from the other side, and thus ceasing to be a minority. The senate is in favor of the subsidy bill. The President has been at pains to explain to congress his desire touching the matter, and to give in extenso the grounds upon which his desire rests. The failure of the measure to pass would be a direct slap at the administration. Doubtless it is for this precise reason that there is a partisan struggle to bring about the overthrow of the bill. It is hard to imagine American senators really hoping to prevent the building of a merchant marine. They are ready, however, to prevent it for the purpose of turning a partisan trick. Perhaps there are democrats yearning to get even with republicans for the fate of Wilson's post war legislation.

To filibuster is small business. It is a sign of fear. It is a mean trick, unworthy the dignity of any senator.

Fire in the Armour plant at Omaha caused damage to the amount of two million dollars. The difficulty in fighting the blaze was the bitter weather that hampered the firemen. The morning the news was published in southern California, the sun was shining, and the air had all the suavity and charm of an ideal June day.

It's a smart woman who can make her own clothes so that her neighbors will not suspect it.

RELIGIOUS POETRY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dr. Caroline Miles Hill has just gotten together a collection of religious poems. It makes an admirable book and one that ought to be in every library.

The collection covers the entire range of ancient and modern literature and is well indexed.

Perhaps this is about the best kind of book on religion that there is. For the best part of religion is its poetry. In fact, it might be successfully argued that what is not poetry is not religion.

One thing that strikes us in this book is the peculiar unity of the human race when it comes to the expression of sincere religious feeling.

From the psalms of David and the hymn of Cleanthes to the latest free verse the hunger for God is expressed in terms as continuous and strong as the hunger for food and love.

The poet is always at an advantage in speaking of religion. For he speaks with authority. His feet are not tangled with literalisms and his wings are not clipped by the little pessimisms and exude from minds that are swamped in particular.

The Bible is essentially poetry. It is the great Hebrew anthology.

And that it is not a mere racial thing is proved by the number of similar poems that have sprung up among other people than the Hebrews.

People would have less trouble with the Bible if they realized that it is essentially a poem, and if they further realized that there is more truth in poetry than out of it.

Dr. Herbert L. Willett says: "Of all the interests which have engaged the attention of humanity, religion has proved the most powerful and the most inspiring. It is only one among many such objects of attention, but it appears the most pervasive and unescapable. Men have concerned themselves with a great variety of affairs, such as food, clothing, shelter, mating, family life, industry, war, government, institutions, customs and traditions. But above all there has been the brooding and persistent sense of relationship with higher powers. Inspired by that sense the innumerable expressions of the religious life have taken form in doctrine and ritual. Hardly a community in all the world is without them. Individuals there are who appear to be religionless, but no race or nation or tribe. It would seem to be the most essential characteristic of the intellectual and emotional life of mankind."

I do not see how any preacher can do without this book.

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

DISCUSSION CLUB

"Them Laying" or "Their Laying"?

Julia E. Young: "It has always seemed to me that when a word such as 'laying' precedes a word such as 'laying,' and is the more important of the two, it should be in the form them and not in the possessive form their. 'In the sentence, 'I enjoyed watching them laying the pavement,' 'them' is the important word and laying merely describes them. There is therefore the object I enjoy watching. 'Possibly I can illustrate what I mean better by the following sentences: Think of me riding in an airplane; Think of my riding in an airplane. The first sentence might have been used by a person planning to take a ride in an airplane. The second one gives the impression that the idea of his riding in an airplane is preposterous.' In the first sentence the command is to think of me; in the second, it is to think of riding."

Mr. Nicholson: Miss Young's pardon is asked for the dropping out of some of her technical grammatical terms and the substitution of simpler language in parts of her interesting letter. "The Right Word" is trying to carry on discussions in popular language (non-technical) as much as possible. The foregoing reasoning is sound and needs little expansion. The following examples also illustrate Miss Young's theory: "But he felt the sweat start on his forehead at the picture of Dick sitting down to breakfast. . . ." "Remember me plodding along while you grew up. . . ." The picture is of Dick, not sitting, sitting going along with the word Dick to create atmosphere or to complete the picture. Therefore, one would not write, . . . at the picture of Dick's sitting down to breakfast. The same reasoning applies to the second sentence, me being preferable to my.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Yesterday.
Today.
Tomorrow.

Life is comprised in those three periods.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Yesterday of course, in the amplest interpretation, includes all of them that has passed.

That is the poetic way of putting it. It does not mean merely the twenty-four hours that precede today.

It signifies the past. Time that has gone.

Thus in the language of the geologist, the world was made yesterday.

Yesterday was the time of geologic periods. The great deposits of coal were laid yesterday.

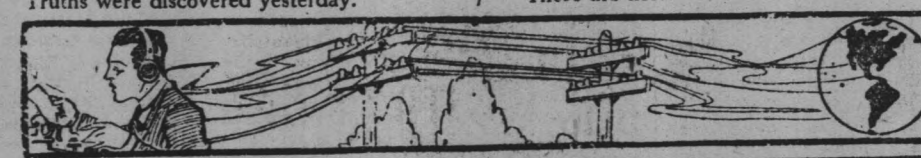

Yesterday the dinosaur and the pleisosaurs and the ichthyosaurs roamed the moist and muddy earth.

The record of yesterday is made. No man or force can change a thing that happened yesterday.

Yesterday is final and complete. It is not within the power of man to turn backward.

There can be no achievements that will make a record on the book of yesterday.

But from yesterday we may take a lesson for the future. Truths were discovered yesterday.

Is This the Lark!—By Joseph Auslander in "The Measure"

Is this the lark

Lord Shakespeare heard

Out of the dark

Of dawn! Is this the bird

That stirred

Lord Shakespeare's heart!

Is this the bird whose wing,

Whose rapturous antheming,

Rose up, soared radiant, became

Sharp flame

To Shelley listening

And made him sing,

Throbbing alone, aloof, feveredly apart,

His profuse strains of unpremeditated art!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

DIXON NO KU-KLUXER

[New York Tribune]

Dr. Thomas Dixon is surprised and indignant that anyone should regard his motion picture play, "The Birth of a Nation," as propaganda for the Ku Klux Klan. That it has been so regarded by some of the sheet and pillowcase brethren who witnessed it appears from an invitation he received to become a member of the order.

This invitation, he told a meeting of protest against Ku Klux rule, he refused in a scathing letter to its sender. Dr. Dixon denounced the Klan as the most dangerous movement in American history. In condemning its anti-negro activities he said that he would cheerfully take his rifle in hand and stand beside the humblest negro to defend him from such assaults.

His statement that he has never intended to "boost" the Klan and that he regards it as decidedly mischievous is reassuring to law-abiding citizens. Incidentally, the doctor will prove a valuable ally in the fight that patriotic citizens are making against this un-American organization.

NO HERESY TRIAL

[Springfield Republican]

Those who expected Bishop Manning to push the issue raised by Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant to a heresy trial overestimated the bishop's stiffness in controversy and his inborn inclination to combat. Bishop Manning, in the popular view of him, may be a "strong arm prelate" with a keen sense of his authority, yet he has chosen to execute a diplomatic retreat and leave Dr. Grant in complete possession of his pulpit. ## COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Roseville in this state is having a struggle with the ku klux. It appears that these singular creatures desire the privilege of holding their meetings in a church, and are in this upheld by the pastor.

The town authorities want to pass an ordinance forbidding men to show themselves in public places while masked and disguised. The pastor wants men so accounted to be permitted the freedom of places of public worship, including that over which he presides.

The pastor is strong for the "constitutional rights" of the ku klux, ignoring the fact that they themselves exist in open defiance of the constitution, and of all American principle.

When the ku klux have made anywhere a showing of their purpose it has been by means brutal and cowardly. A New York writer said the other day that ku kluxism expressed the very heartbeat of America. Of course he lied; but he was only a poor writer anxious to evoke response, for publicity is dear to his soul, if a shrimp may be said to have a soul. But a pastor should know better.

The ku klux declaration is that it is superior to the law as set down in the statutes, but that it will make and execute its own law. It is a silly mob wrought upon by leaders who are making a good thing out of its folly. It stipulates what religion a man shall have, what shall be the color of his skin to permit him the rights of citizenship. It adds that he must be born in this country or remain outcast and alien.

The pastor ought to be ashamed of himself. And if the town authorities can't control the hooded marauders, they ought to quit.

When there was a great gathering of soldiers at Camp Lewis in Washington, Major Cronkite was shot. The act had every aspect of murder. Suspicion fell on a subordinate officer. All that was several years ago. Ever since, the crime there has been an effort to bring the suspected man to trial, but a great and undefined influence seems to operate against the plan. He is denied even the boon of vindication that ought to be dear to the innocent.

The father of the slain man was a general in the army. He has been retired against his protest. He asserts that there is a plot to thwart justice, and really the hypothesis becomes more and more reasonable as delay continues.

While southern California has been free from storms, terrific gales have raged along the northwest coast. The wrecking of four ships off Washington was a most unusual series of ocean tragedies.

There is some slight comfort in the fact that there never is a wreck that does not prove that the men who "go down to the sea in ships" are of hero stuff.

Talk about Ford for President increases in volume. Perhaps he is the man most fit. Whether this judgment is to be based on the peace ship that was to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, on the fame of the flivver, or on the showing made by Ford while a witness on the stand, are facts that still lurk in the background.

As a witness, Ford declared history "to be bunk." He was stumped when asked a lot of questions about the United States that the average school lad of ten years could have answered with flippant ease. He didn't know who Benedict Arnold was, but thought he was "a writer of some sort." Probably so absolute an instance of ignorance on the part of a man who had won distinction, never before came to light.

From time to time there have been intimations that Ford had peculiar notions concerning the creation of money by starting the presses, somewhat as is done in Russia—hence the ruble—or in Germany—hence the mark.

But as a manufacturer Ford is without peer. As an employer he is all that any wage earner could desire. He is so big a figure in the field in which destiny has set him, that perhaps it would not be wholly kind to wrench him out of it.

What the club women in this end of the state are doing is evinced in part by the magnitude of their realty operations. One club, the Ebells, has purchased a valuable lot in Los Angeles, and is about to erect on it a half million dollar building. The membership is 3000.

Other clubs organized for and by women are engaged in similar activities. With such manifest solidarity, the women must be reckoned a definite and powerful force.

Embalmed in the Congressional Record is a poem submitted by a representative from Kentucky. What cause he was upholding by this burst of song does not matter. Nor did he give the name of the author. Probably it was Ezra Pound. Here is the poem:

What a wonderful bird the frog are!

When he sit, he stand almost;

When he hop, he fly almost;

He ain't got no tail hardly, either;

When he sit, he sit on what he ain't got almost.

Yet it is possible there still are people who never think of opening the Congressional Record.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Maybe Uncle Joe didn't mean it that way. But one of the little stories he told the other day might have been set down as a sermon on courage. He might have written the text this way:

"Never quit. Never get frightened. Never give up."

When Uncle Joe Cannon got off the little wood-burning train at Danville, Ill., sixty-odd years ago, he might properly have been described as travelling light. He had $7, a few clothes in an old carpetbag, and a bundle of lawbooks tied up with a piece of rope. His idea was that Danville must be full of litigation and that he could soon forge his way to the head of the local bar. He asked a bystander at the depot where he could find a hotel.

"Over there," said the loafer.

He trudged over, with his carpetbag and his roped-up lawbooks and his $7. The proprietor of the hotel was a genial man. The future Uncle Joe liked him at once.

But I can't pay a dollar a day for board and lodging," said he in dismay. "Why, I only have $7."

The proprietor was really genial. He

PEARSONS HAVE BEEN WEDDED 57 YEARS

They Were Married in Wilmington, N. C., in 1866

By O. L. KILBORN

On February 20, 1866, in the Episcopal church at Wilmington, North Carolina, Isaac Pearson led to the altar Miss Kate Terry. He was 27 years of age, compactly built, erect in stature, with a magnificent black beard flowing almost to his waist. She was 19; petite and fairy-like, with laughing eyes, and lips always smiling, an inveterate tease and a veritable mad-cap. They had been engaged for 10 years. When he was a boy of 17 and she but 9, they had solemnly plighted their troth and had agreed to wait for each other. In all the ten years that followed, untold ages to the young whose hearts beat in love's union, they had never seen each other and but very few letters had been exchanged. A dreadful war had deluged the nation but there was no war in their hearts. He, in Fayette, Mo., and she in Wilmington, N. C., impatiently awaited the end of the dreadful conflict, their wishes for a life of happiness together might be consummated. At last the time came and they were made man and wife. And whom God joined together on that day, no man ever attempted to put asunder.

Yesterday, after 57 happy years spent together, they, with a few friends, enjoyed an afternoon in living over the scenes of that happy day on another coast. He is still erect, with the old fire in his eye, but the long beard is now white as the snow. She is bent and feeble with years of suffering nobly borne, but nothing can quench her gay spirit and teasing ways. The burden of the years, the trials of motherhood, might have daunted her and she is still the cheerful Mrs. Pearson whose many deeds of kindness in the years that are gone, now bring rich fruitage in the love and veneration of those who knew her bounty.

For almost half a century they lived a life of usefulness in Fayette, Mo., then, at the insistence of their children they came to this land of sunshine to spend their declining years. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Miner and Mrs. Clara Janzen drove over from Pasadena to spend the afternoon, bringing with them a generous supply of

BE CHEERFUL ABOUT IT

I've got to go on and I've got to do work,
I've nothing to gain if I idle and shirk.
There are some things I like and some things that I don't,
But I can't always say that I will or I won't,
For the choice is not mine, and the battle is won.
By doing with might everything to be done,
So here's to the job and its use—I won't doubt it,
I'll do it and try to be cheerful about it.

There's no good in growling or fussing or fret,
No one of the three ever did a job yet;
I might as well meet things with courage and grit,
That's the kind of a batter who makes the base hit.
So whatever it is, let me gladly pitch in
With a smile as the best way a job should begin;
There's no use to scold it or hate it or flout it,
A job must be done, so be cheerful about it.

Yes, life must be lived, from the sun to the sun,
And jobs must be finished and work must be done.
The hills must be climbed and the rivers be crossed,
And some men must plan and some men must be bossed;
And breaks must be mended and bricks must be laid
And troubles be met and the game must be played
With good sense and courage, and never you doubt it,
So let's to the job and be cheerful about it.

fruit punch and cake, so that the dear old people would have no occasion to worry over the problem of entertaining them. It was a happy occasion. Mrs. Pearson recounted the incidents of her wedding day and the honeymoon trip to New York, which in those days just following the great war was a very difficult journey; then the trip to Springfield, Illinois, where they were entertained by Mr. Pearson's 54 cousins; and finally the journey to St. Louis and thence to Renick, Mo., by rail, with the final 25-mile stage ride to Fayette.

Mrs. Pearson gave a humorous reading, also, and then she and her lover-husband sang some of the old songs, she playing the accompaniments on a sweet-toned old square piano which was one of her wedding gifts, and which has been in the home ever since. Though both feel the burden of the years, they are the same true lovers as on that day now long gone, when in life's bright morning they gave themselves to each other.

Mr. Pearson was 84 years of age on February 3 and Mrs. Pearson passed her 76th birthday about three weeks before that. Both still retain all their faculties. He can read without glasses and both hear perfectly. She is an indefatigable reader of good books and has a wonderful store of useful knowledge; plays and sings, is a fine conversationalist and a painter of rare ability. He has the rare faculty of being a good reader and is also a fine chess player.

The home of these dear old people is at 44 East Harvard and all who know them are their warm and loving friends.

SNEAK THIEVES ROB VISITOR TO CITY

The mother of Benjamin Franklin Bourne, realty operator in this city and prominent in Eastern Star circles, after being a guest in his home for a week or more, decided to visit another son and gathering up her personal belongings, repaired to his home. Dinner was served shortly after she arrived and when it was over the discovery was made that a thief had entered the house and carried away everything of value Mrs. Bourne brought with her, including a fine fur wrap and a handbag containing valuable papers and a collection of jewelry of considerable intrinsic worth, but more precious to Mrs. Bourne because it had belonged to a daughter who is dead.
